Horace Mann School for Boys

FIELDSTON, NEW YORK

Foreword

In this book we have tried to perpetuate the year 1924-25, and to put into lasting form the spirit which has been the keynote of its greatness. Unfortunately we are limited to black and white. Pictures must stand for the throbbing life of school; statistics, insufficient as they are, must represent the great events of the year. If these pages succeed in expressing the spirit that makes Horace Mann what it is to us, then we have not failed in our endeavor.

In future years, when your mind is weighed down by the burden of business, and your interests are narrowed to the channels of your work, take out this book, and let it bridge the gap between the present and the past. Let it lead you back to the year 1924-25, and stir up pleasant memories of your days at Horace Mann. Then may you feel again the thrill that went through you as you watched the Hackley game, and cheered with every fiber of your being. May you re-live the fleeting seconds of the Senior Prom, or the anxious hours that preceded the final exams. In moments of dejection, may these pages rekindle in you the old ardor with which you attacked your school activities. In moments of regret, may they carry you back to happier days and grant you sweet forgetting! In moments of indecision, may this record of glorious victories and honorable defeats stir up ambition and confidence in your heart. But above all, may it keep the love of Horace Mann forever alive in your breast; and in future years, may it lead your thoughts, if not your footsteps, back to your Alma Mater!

FACULTY

To the Editor of the 1925 Mannikin Dear Sir:

As your class leaves the school it seems only natural to grieve at the separation and to feel that a group of young men is going from us the like of whom we have not had before nor are likely to have again. This of course, is not really the case; there have been in former days boys as admirable as you, and no doubt others equally excellent will come after you. Those of us, therefore, who stay on here are not apt to be deprived permanently of the warm pleasure which comes from association with fine young men like you. You, however, who go have indeed been uncommonly attractive and pleasant to live with here, and I cannot help thinking a good deal about what your development will be. You are soon to mingle with much larger and more heterogeneous student bodies and with faculties whose lives will be comparatively remote from yours. What these large groups of men will think of you will be of extreme interest to me, and ought to be of vital interest to you. One thing is certain; college life is so full and varied and public that you will be known for just what you are! I could have no greater satisfaction than to know that when you graduate from college you will be as highly respected and admired by all who know you as you now are by us who enjoyed your presence so long.

To win that respect and that admiration at that time it will be necessary for you merely to be the same kind of boys that you now are and to presevere in those same high qualities which now characterize you. These, as I see them, are high-mindedness, energetic ambition, adherence to great ideals of honesty, truth, purity and religion. Nothing will ever give greater richness and nobility to your lives than these things, and I bid you Godspeed with earnest hope that they may ever shine forth in your careers.

With heartiest good wishes and sincerest friendship,

WILLIAM J. NAGLE

To the Editor of the 1925 Mannikin Dear Sir:

It is a well established fact that each senior class in its turn exercises the greatest influence over the student body as a whole. This is as it should be. Physical superiority combined with greater mental and moral stability must make the seniors the leaders of their fellow students. This leadership, no doubt, is a very enjoyable thing, but it also carries with it a tremendous amount of responsibility. Unless we close our eyes to the more pleasant and the vainer aspects of this position, and recognize these responsibilities and strive to live up to them to the best of our ability, we are but poor leaders. It is not enough to uphold the old traditions; we must always work for still higher ideals and adopt them as part of our community. Here is where you seniors proved yourselves able leaders.

For years, we of the faculty have been working to establish certain standards of honesty and honor It was therefore of great satisfaction to us to learn that you, the members of the Class of 1925, shared these ideals of more mature men, and took effective steps to establish them in our community. To be sure, the ground is only broken, and there is still much to be accomplished, but the work is so large that no one class can hope to perfect it. It seems to me that the vision, courage, and fine judg ment which you showed in starting this movement make you strong and successful leaders - successful because you leave behind you a better and more wholesome community. I am hoping with you that the classes succeeding you will continue your strong will and determination to do the honorable thing always.

This is not an obituary — even though it contains only praise — it cannot be one, because we feel and know that your school spirit and your active interests will always be with us. Good luck to you!

Sincerely,

E. R. DODGE

To The Editor of the I925 Mannikin Dear Sir:

As the time draws near for you to leave the active life of Horace Mann School for Boys, to enter the broader, freer life of the college or the university, I want to crystallize, as it were, a few of the things for which you stand and which make college life and all life really worth while.

Each of you has the choice of being a leader or a follower. Which shall it be? Remember that cultivation of the intellect is the main reason for going to college and the aim of each should be to do his job well. When things are not going right, do not call it fate or ill-luck, but look within. Examine yourselves and then have the backbone and courage not only to put the blame where it belongs, but to face about and go forward. Work consistently, not spasmodically. Master some one thing. Have faith in your fellow students, but do not be gullible. Have self-confidence, but not conceit. Remember that each of you is responsible for the good name of your school, of your college, of any organization to which you may belong, yes, responsible for the good name of your country.

Believe in high moral standards and live them, Honor yourself, not humor yourself. Never set aside your high principles for anything. "Be royal to the royal in thyself". Practice self-control, self-discipline, self-development. Strive for the big things, but do the little things well. Seek those things which inspire. Have a religion which has for its basis the forces of God. Such a religion uplifts and elevates.

"The man who on himself relies
Shall fail however strong and wise,
But he who grips the hand of God,
Shall walk in the path the heroes trod."

Of him who hath, much is expected. How often, though, the man with a few talents but with determination and grit, far surpasses the man with many talents. Let the motto of each be to use what he has to the best of his ability and capacity. The best equipment for life is a sound body, clean and wholesome; a sound mind which thinks straight and thinks things through; a sympathy which makes for service and helpfulness.

"Thou must be true thyself
If thou the truth would teach;
Thy soul must overflow if thou
Another soul would reach;
It needs the overflow of heart
To give the lips full speech."

With best wishes for each and looking forward with interest and pleasure to your success in college as good citizens of this great country.

Cordially yours.

GEO, HOWARD BRUCE

To the Editor of the 1925 Mannikin Dear Sir:

I should like to talk to the boys of 1925 in the character of one who once went the way you are now going, and who in the many years, has not lost a feeling of kinship with all the generations of boys he has seen go that way since.

However, I have been to you a teacher of Mathematics, and I assume that it is as a teacher of "Math." that you wish to hear from me.

In the years soon to come, you will forget (that is, if you know now) what the cosine of 45 degrees is, and if any one should ask you to define a surd, you will probably not be able to make a sound. But, if you have learned how logically to establish a truth; that truth is inexorable and will not yield to human desire or human prejudice however vivid; if you have learned how little of complete truth can be found and isolated by human logic, and how much of it has to be left to a faith that sometime we shall no longer see "Through a glass darkly" then you will have gotten from your Mathematics courses the best and the most that is in them,

On the other hand, if you have not been mastering your Mathematics, you are by so much less equipped to think or speak the truth.

Sincerely,

JOHN DUELE NEITZ

G. A. Review

The Horace Mann General Association Executive Committee is the controlling power of the General Association. Every member of the school belongs to the G. A. The Executive Committee consists of the President, Vice-President, and Secretary who are chosen by the whole school and one representative each from the managers, captains, and business managers of the various recognized organizations in the school. The Committee makes all regulations concerning athletics and transacts all business pertaining to such. It likewise is empowered to make all laws concerning appropriations for the support of athletic teams and other branch organizations.

The first meeting of the year was held primarily to make out the budget at which time it was also decided to abolish the appropriation for midget and freshmen football uniforms.

The Committee during its Fall sessions decided to award jerseys to the Second Football team and to appropriate four hundred dollars for the use of the Quarterly Board. The sum of twenty dollars was granted to the Pep Committee for their purpose of fostering school spirit and the sessions closed with the Committee's approval on the recommendations for letters for Fall sports.

During the Winter term the Executive Committee awarded a sum sufficient for a hockey coach and reembursed the Cross Country appropriation when that organization over-ran its amount. The basketball team was given fitting rewards in the shape of gold basketballs for winning the Private Schools title and the Winter session closed with approval of the letter recommendations.

During the Spring the Committee supervised the regulation of the athletic funds and closed its term after the final group of letters were given out.

Student Council Review

The aim of the Student Council is to handle any questions which concern student life, activities, school spirit or the name and reputation of the Horace Mann School. The Council serves as a link between the faculty and the student body and possesses the power to form and enforce any regulations which are necessary in carrying out in practical fashion the ideals of conduct on which the school life is based.

The initial meeting of the Council was held to elect officers for the coming year, and Edmund Oelkers and Herman Heydt were chosen president and secretary respectively. The Council decided that in order to further the spirit in the school it should revive the Pep and Auxiliary Committees, branch organizations which helped in stirring up school spirit and linking the student body more closely with its senate.

Numerous school problems soon faced the Council and the body was forced to take severe action in regard to the prevalent habit of defacing school property. The custom of borrowing various things around school grew to such an extent that the Council decided to put a halt to this condition entirely and accordingly banned and disapproved promiscuous loans. The Council then adopted a ruling which stated that the front door could be used at all times except during the Junior play period, at which time the east door should be used. This was passed so that the confusion at that time could be climinated. The biggest question of the year was brought up when the Honor Committee asked for approval. This was unanimously passed. It was further enacted that the Council have jurisdiction over all cases and that the body should hold trials if necessary. The Council during the course of the year adopted strict measures in regard to students who violated the principles of honesty which were set down. The Council concluded its year's work by adopting minor regulations essential to student life and for the interests of the school.

Club Council Review

Before in any way attempting to review the activities of the Council it seems necessary to give a brief account of the Clubs at Horace Mann what they stand for and what they accomplish. As a general rule there are two clubs to a form. Below the third form, however, there may be only one such organization, as it seldom has been deemed necessary or even advisable to form a group as closely related as members of clubs naturally become, in the First of Second forms. The aim of every club in the school is to further in any way in its power, the interests of H. M. The closer companionship with congenial fellows and the social advantages gained by club membership, while of worth, are the results and not the causes for establishing the club system. The paramount purpose of every club in the school, is to better Horace Mann. How far this aim is accomplished we will not venture to say. But the fact remains that the guiding ideal of the club system at Horace Mann is a great one — one which ought to be imbedded deep in the heart of each fellow who goes to H. M.

The purpose of the Horace Mann Club Council is to coordinate to the best advantage the work of the individual Clubs and to legislate on matters affecting their common interests.

It was with this aim in view that the Council set out to accomplish whatever might be beneficial for the clubs. After the election of Heydt for the secretarial duty, Mr. Nagle, the permanent chairman, outlined the positions of the organizations in school and the attitude of the Faculty towards clubs in general. In order to improve the conduct of the clubs and to put them on a satisfactory basis, it was decided that Mr. Nagle would have to become the personal advisor to each club.

The task of publishing next year's Manual was brought up before the Council and was awarded to the Delphi Club. The Council then undertook the duty of forming more organizations in the Fifth Form and as a result the new Theban Club was organized.

The Inter-Club Basketball Tournament was decided to be held under the auspices of the Delian Club and was won by the Adelphoi Club. The Delian and Fidean Clubs were given permission to hold a Lower School Swimming Meet which was successfully run off shortly after the mid-years.

The final business of the year came about when to the By-Laws a regulation was added that an older club could will to a younger club any of the awards that it formerly presented.

Library Committee Review

The Library Committee was originally formed with the express purpose of stimulating interest in the Library throughout the school and the Committee has accomplished its aim under the guidance of Miss Brainerd, the Librarian.

The direct object of the Committee is not only to assume charge of the Library whenever the circumstances demand but to put the Library more under the control of the students and to express the views and opinions of the pupils in regard to the literature and the general upkeep of the Library. The work of the Committee outside of the Library is to arouse more interest in the reading of worthy literature and to be able to recommend books for the students to read. This aim is accomplished each year when, under the auspices of the Library Committee, the universal Book Week is celebrated in the school. Book Week is generally celebrated with either talks on various forms of literary works or by having some prominent person talk to the school on an appropriate subject for the occasion.

Another yearly feature of the Committee is the holding of a tea dance for the purpose of procuring books which the students desired at a census previously taken. The affair was held the 14th of February and was such a success that the Committee was able to buy all the recommended books.

Football Review

The Varsity football team again was forced to taste the bitter dregs of a mediocre season. It was successful in the number of victories recorded, but failed to achieve the goal and the inevitable glory of a triumph over Hackley, which awaits a future eleven; Horace Mann tallied three victories and the opponents registered two, but these facts only cover up the keen disappointment accorded.

The opening game of the season brought the highly touted Dwight eleven to Alumni Field on October 17th. The contest furnished the only consolation for the season. Horace Mann, driving with machine-like and rhythmic precision, astonished its supporters by completely outplaying its rivals and sweeping to a 27-0 triumph. It was evident that the eleven had reached the pinnacle of its form and was due for a serious slump.

The following week the team faced the woefully weak Trinity eleven and here furnished the first evidence of its coming downfall. They played the first half in the same convincing manner by which they downed Dwight, but in the second half lost all its offensive power and was held scoreless. Although H. M. emerged victorious 25-0, the failure to produce a sustained drive was brought glaringly into view.

On October 31, H. M. lined up against the weaker and smaller Bronxville team, and while Horace Mann registered its third consecutive win, 26-0, it played listlessly and again exhibited conclusive proof that it lacked the ability to continue the pace it set in the early part of the season.

The following week found H. M. against real opposition when it faced its traditional rival Hackley. While it can be truthfully said that the breaks did not favor us, nevertheless our inability to handle the ball was directly responsible for our 13-7 defeat. The spirit shown by the entire school was the real thing and the team responded by giving all it had, even though fighting a losing battle.

The season was brought to an unfortunate close when the fast Adelphi eleven ran us into a 6-0 loss on November 14th.

Capt. Ed. Kertscher was the outstanding player of the year. He not only led his eleven in a capable manner, but his stellar plunging at halfback made him H. M.'s most consistent ground gainer. He was the most dependable player on the team and carried the burden of punting proficiently.

Herman Kertscher, next year's leader, although slow on the offense, was a tower of strength on the defense at center.

The wingmen consisted of Gitterman and Taylor, hard tacklers and excellent at receiving passes, but their proficiency was hindered by their lack of speed. Reid and Prettyman were the understudies.

Kops and Oelkers formed the tackles and were really the bulwarks and main strength of the line. Their aggressiveness and power made them the outstanding pair of linemen. Without them the line would have lacked a great deal of its defensive ability. Loeb also received his letter at this position.

Strayer was the other substitute.

Kane and Simpson filled the guard positions. Both lacked the needed alertness and drive to make that part of the line impenetrable, but this was in a measure redeemed by their hard tackling when the opportunity offered.

Ellinger at quarterback, while too light to carry the ball, was reliable in calling signals and displayed a remarkable fighting nerve. Although he was unsteady in handling the pigskin, nevertheless he was one of the best quarterbacks seen at H. M. in many a year. Menefee filled the position in a capable manner whenever called upon to do so.

Crane, Oviatt, Boyd, and Gilbert alternated at the half-backs posts. The first, although extremely slow, was adept at passing and receiving punts and was the steadiest man on the squad. The others filled the position satisfactorily when called upon. Gilbert was usually good for short gains: Boyd showed up exceptionally well at line plunging; and Oviatt, the fastest man on the team, sometimes broke away for long gains in a scattered field. He also took care of the points after touchdowns. Chambers was the only other candidate for this post.

The team was admirably coached by "Ump" Tewhill and Mr. Schmitt and to them is due all the credit possible. Rohert Barden arranged the well regulated schedule and took care of the team's necessities in an approved manner.

Basketball Review

The Basketball Team of 1925 lived up to the precedent set by former teams in Horace Mann's best sport, despite the fact that the players had to become accustomed to the large floor of the new gymnasium. Out of twenty starts they were on the long end of the score seventeen times.

The first game with Hamilton was won by default. The second game with the Fanwood quintet was easily captured by a score of 23-12.

During the Christmas holidays the Alumni were repulsed without much difficulty. The fourth and fifth victories were registered at the expense of Trinity and Manhattan Prep. in games featured by H. M.'s remarkable guarding. McBurney easily succumbed to the superior playing of the Red and White, 24-15.

The following week both games were played away. In one of the best games of the season Horace Mann avenged itself on Loyola for last years defeat. The score was 34-21. Adelphi offered little competition, the final count reading 24-11.

The record of eight consecutive victories was eventually broken by the powerful New York Military Academy team in a hard fought game played at Cornwall, and before the team came out of its slump Evander Childs hung up a victory at H. M.'s expense. The game was exciting but slow, the score being 18-17. In both of these games the team played hard but met with hard luck.

In the next five games the team showed its best form, being held to an average score only once. Collegiate Prep. and Haaren were easily vanquished, the scores being 37-10 and 54-7 respectively. Hackley fell before our powerful attack in an uninteresting contest 42-6. Horace Mann continued its new streak, Poly Prep, being the fourth victim. The Poly game was in the nature of a grudge fight, which was waged in a colorful, exciting manner. Bronxville and Stuyvesant were not in H. M.'s class, both being conquered by wide margins. The fifteenth victory of the season was registered against the Columbia Freshman Team in a rough game. The count at the final whistle was 25-11. The Red and White made it eight straight again with the Friend's Seminary as opponents, only to have its record broken by the Bryant Team in the last game. This was undoubtedly the best game of the year, the teams being evenly matched, and it was closely contested from start to finish. The score was 25-24.

The loss of this game cost us the championship of Greater New York, but we still held undisputable claims to the N. Y. Private Schools Championship.

In return for the very successful record hung up by the team of '25, gold basketballs were granted seven lettermen by the G. A.

Captain Robinson was the leader of the team this year. He was the high scorer of the season and was a sure shot under the basket, besides being the fastest man on the floor. He will be greatly missed next year.

Austin was the other distinguished player on the team. His guarding was excellent and he was a good shot from any angle, also having the best record in foul shooting.

Barnouw, the other forward, was the second highest scorer, and although it was his first year on the Varsity squad, he developed rapidly into a dependable player.

Kane, who was at center most of the season, was very consistent, but was considerably handicapped by his lack of speed. Loeb starting the season at the other guard was injured early in the year and was replaced by Gitterman and Prettyman. The former guarded well, but was not a consistent shot. The latter was best in a passing game. He has been elected to guide the team next year.

The other men on the squad were Heydt, Kops.

Lewis, Taylor and Chambers.

Earl Taylor was Manager this year. He arranged a long, and difficult schedule and took care of the business end in an acceptable fashion. He will be succeeded by James Walker.

The lion's share of the credit should be given to Mr. Tewhill, who coached the team again this year.

Baseball Review

The Varsity baseball team of 1924 was undonbtedly the best team Horace Mann has turned out since the championship team of 1921. This statement is easily proved by glancing at the difficult schedule which records six victories and three defeats. At first this does not appear to be a notable achievement, but these defeats came at the hands of Irving, North Plainfield and Evander Childs, public school champions of the state. On the other hand it vanquished George Washington, who were the previous year's champions of the entire east and Poly Prep, our greatest rivals, for the first time in a number of years.

The season opened with a setback at the hands of North Plainfield, in a game featured by free hitting and poor fielding. The score was 19-16. In the next game H. M. chalked up its first victory, overwhelming Trinity, 16-7. This was followed by another easy triumph over Cathedral Prep, by the score of 18-9. The third game resulted in an 11 -11 tie with Manhattan Prep, the game being called in the seventh inning due to rain. The team then journeyed over to Essex Falls where it took Kingsley into camp to the tune of 25-2. Gilbert's fielding featured the game. H. M. suffered its second setback when Evander Childs came out on the long end of a 12-6 score. The team atoned for this defeat by scoring notable triumphs over George Washington and Poly Prep, by the scores of 7-5 and 9-2 respectively. Heydt's superb pitching featured both games while Captain Riggio's home run added to the glory of the latter. H. M. followed up these victories by vanquishing Adelphi in a well played game, 4-3. In the finale the team lost to Irving, due largely to infield errors. The score was 5-2.

Captain Riggio led the team at short-stop, playing a consistently good game. The infield was composed of Sperry, the leading hitter, at first, Weser, the mainstay of the inner works, at second, Riggio at short, and Boehnel, a steady fielder, at third.

The star of the outer garden was Hirshon, whose remarkable catch saved the Washington game. The center section was ably patrolled by Gilbert, a strong hitter and a dependable fielder while right field was taken care of by Smith.

The battery consisted of Woodward, Heydt, and Kane on the hurling end and Captain-elect Ellinger on the receiving end. Austin played a steady game at first and in right field when called upon.

PROSPECTS FOR 1925

The 1925 baseball team will be led by Captain Ellinger, whose dependable backstopping was one of the features of last year's season. The infield will probably be composed of Austin, Heydt when not pitching, Smith, and some member of the 1924 second team. In the outfield there will be such veterans as Gilbert and Boyd. The pitching department will consist of Heydt, Wilder, Kane, and perhaps Ludvig, while Ellinger, Gitterman, and Barden will receive them.

Track Review

Due to the fact that only four r gulars remained from the previous year, the prospects for 1924 were not very bright. But despite this handicap, Coach Winter set diligently to work to whip together a team out of the material at hand. It was mainly through his able efforts, coupled with the cooperation of the entire squad, that H. M. enjoyed an average season. The team competed in four dual meets, two of which it won, and was represented, also, in four open meets. As the opposition was always of the highest calibre, this record may be looked back upon with a good deal of pride as a very creditable showing.

In the opening meet, Dwight was smothered by the score of 78-14. Following this victory, the mile relay team, composed of Robinson, Miller, Murphy, and Swope placed fourth at the New York University Interscholastic Meet. On the subsequent week-end, the team took a decided brace and won first place over eight other schools in the Private School Relay at the Penn Relays. This was quite an accomplishment as no open meet races had ever before been won by Horace Mann, and Wilson, Murphy, Miller, and Swope deserve a lot of credit. The local runners suffered their worst defeat of the season at the hands of Poly Prep. their closest rivals, when they were defeated on a muddy track 64-36. But the Red and White partially made up for this setback by swamping Hackley to the tune of 59-22. The H. M. represenatives were exceedingly strong on the trac; capturing the first and second places in all the running events. The next meet took place at Pawling where the team came out on the short end of a close score. In the A.A.P.S., H. M. placed fourth out of fifteen schools at Columbia. According to expectations, Poly Prep took first place, but not as easily as in previous years. Sam Wilson came through in great style and established the record for the 220 yard low hurdles by winning this event in the excellent time of 26 3-5 seconds. As a climax to a season in which H. M. was spasmodically strong and weak, Ken Robinson lowered the school record for the mile to four minutes and fifty seconds at the Columbia Meet.

As a reward for their fine work, H. M.'s were awarded to nine members of the squad, at whose head stands Captain Swope. Although he was unable to compete in many of the meets on account of injuries, he collected enough points to win an H. M. His re-election to the captaincy for the 1925 season shows the esteem in which he was held by his team-mates. To Miller goes the credit for being the high scorer with 411/4 points amassed in the 100, 220, and high jump. Sam Wilson ranked next with scores collected in the hurdles, pole vault, and 440 amounting to 331/4 points, while Robinson proved to be the most versatile runner on the team. He was very strong in the 440, 880, mile, and relay and gained 271/2 points. Oviatt, Miller, and Mould took care of all the jumping events. Waldo and Oviatt were the shot putters and Cole and Barton scored consistently in the mile. Murphy, Curtman, and Walker filled in in the 440, 880 and mile respectively.

Cross Country Review

The 1924 cross country team completed its schedule with a record of two victories out of five dual meets and a very creditable showing in three interscholastic open meets.

In the first race of the season the team journeyed over to the Newton School, and were defeated by the P. S. A. L. champions by a one point margin, 27-28.

In the two dual meets which the team won they were far superior to their opponents. On October 22 Clason Point was defeated by the score of 21-34 and exactly two weeks later St. John's Prep. was vanquished by the same score.

On October 30, the H. M. harriers met defeat at the hands of the strong Poly Prep. aggregation, 23-32, and in the final meet of the season bowed to the De La Salle team. The score was 25-30.

In the open meets the team was more successful, making a very good showing in two of the three. The trip to Troy resulted in the team's capturing sixth place out of sixteen schools of New York State in the R. P. I. Interscholastic Race. The Red and White hill-and-dalers were not so successful in the Yale Interscholastics, where they placed eighth of the twelve teams entered.

The season was brought to its climax when H. M. finished second in the Private School Championship Run, being surpassed only by Poly Prep.

In speaking of individual work, the man to deserve first mention is Captain Robinson, the star of the team for the past two seasons. Besides being a very capable leader his running was excellent. His average was 1.7.

Both Walker and Curtman had an average of 2. The former developed into the most consistent runner on the team, finishing third in all meets but the last two in which he came in second and first. He has been chosen Captain for next year. The latter only ran in the first five races, but crossed the line second in every one.

Gerard Swope, who was on the 1922 team, ranked fourth. His improvement near the end of the season made his average 3.0.

Kennard was a steady runner, and pulled down his average which was 4.6, by his work in the final races. Fuld ran a consistently good race throughout the fall for an average of 5.0.

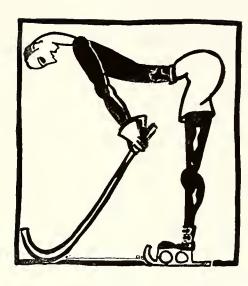

John Swope was manager and took care of the business end, arranging a good schedule.

And last, but not least, is Mr. Winter. Beset with many discouragements throughout the season, he nevertheless developed a team of remarkable possibilities and deserves an unlimited amount of credit for the success of this sport as a whole at H. M.

Prospects for next fall are not very good, as the whole team, with the exception of Captainelect Walker, will graduate in June.

Hockey Review

For the first time in two years, the results of the hockey team's efforts can hardly be termed successful or even satisfactory. Much of the lack of team-work or even good skating can be blamed on the desultory nature of the practices and the inferior quality of the coaching. The team at the beginning of the season possessed one tried veteran and several "comers". At the end of the winter schedule it had added two victories and three defeats — and little more to its opening repertoire.

On January 14th, the team opened its season by defeating the woefully weak DeWitt Clinton aggregation by a 4-0 score. Our playing was characterized by ragged team play and a few good flashes of individual stick-work on the part of Captain Ellinger and Gilbert. On the following Thursday, they hung up their second and last victory when the Mamaroneck High team was outplayed to the tune of 4-1. Gilbert and Menefee played a fine defensive game while Haas at goal was beginning to find himself. On the 24th, we were eclipsed by the strong Pawling combination, 6-0. Lack of practice was painfully apparent in this encounter, but in spite of the marked superiority of our opponents the team showed a fine fighting spirit and played gamely and hard. Jones, the Pawling captain, distinguished himself by netting all six of his team's goals. February 5th saw Horace Mann again meeting defeat, this time at the hands of Jamaica, by a 2-1 score. The last year's city champs kept the puck in H. M. territory during the first two-thirds of the game but in the last third had all they could do to keep the puck away from their own goal, and had not the game been prematurely ended by the management of the rink. we might have pulled the game out of the fire. February 19th saw the team lose its third straight to the Morristown High sextet by the close score of 3-2. The playing conditions were atrocious and the game rather uninteresting.

The two remaining games with Poly Prep and Stuyvesant were cancelled because no rink could be obtained after the Jamaica game either for practice sessions or regular games.

The outstanding member of the team was, of course, Captain Ellinger, who remained the only bright spot in an otherwise rather drab hockey combination. He played brilliantly, both offensively and on the defensive but purely individually. His shooting was fast and hard and his skating flashy but erratic. The other regular member of the forward line was Gerard Swope, who, though a consistently good skater, left much to be desired in his shooting. Right wing was filled by Kennard or Clifford Ellinger as the opportunity offerred. Neither was particularly strong on the ice, Kennard being a better shot under fire. The offensive line on the whole lacked a coordinate attack and would have been greatly improved by a little scientific knowledge of the game.

The defense consisted of Gilbert and Menefee at right and left defense respectively and Haas at goal. Gilbert, a last year's veteran, was an aggressive player and a strong shot and furnished the backbone of the inner works. Menefee, who was broken in at the other position, had much to learn in the handling of his stick, but his skating steadily improved all season and his scrappiness strengthened the team materially. Haas, another newcomer, rapidly learned the ropes and stopped many difficult shots as the season progressed. Swope carried off the high scoring honors with six goals, with Ed.

Ellinger second with four.

Tennis Review

Though not quite up to the high standard set by some of our previous teams, the 'Varsity Tennis Team of 1924 completed a fairly creditable season and added new laurels to the school. It competed in seven meets of which it won five, outside of taking part in the Third Annual Private School Tournament.

The Varsity began auspiciously with victories over McBurney and Trinity by the scores of 3-1 and 4-I respectively. In the latter contest Smith, Eising, and Loeb all won their matches easily. The next week-end, they journeyed over to Stevens Institute of Technology to beat their Junior Varsity 4-1; Smith, Reed and Eising taking the first, second and third singles and Loeb and Klee bettering their opponents in the second doubles. Evander Childs then spoiled Horace Mann's hopes of another championship by decisively beating the maroon players 4-1. Eising's victory in the third singles was the only redeeming feature in the match. The following day. Yonkers High School defeated H. M., winning every round. After two inactive weeks, due to rain, Sutherland, Reed, and Packard went to Forest Hills to participate in the Third Annual Private School Tournament. Reed and Packard advanced to the third round in the doubles but no special honors were achieved as had been the case with Horace Mann's former tennis teams. In the next match, Cutler School was defeated 4-1. Loeb and Sutherland won the second and third singles and also captured the first doubles, while Eising and Fuld were victors in the second doubles. As a climax to the season, H. M. beat their rivals Ethical Culture 4-1

Although there was no outstanding star. Packard, Reed and Smith played equally well. The former, outside of being one of the leading players, captained the team and proved to be an able leader. Reed, though not as brilliant a player as Captain Packard, was the steadier of the two and he took part in more matches. Both of these players not only were good individually, but when paired they formed a very well balanced doubles team.

The best player of the trio was C. W. Smith, the winner of the Fall Tennis Tournament. Unfortunately he was on the baseball team, and so he only engaged in two matches, both of which he won. Loeb and Eising were the other two members of the team. Besides playing a good game in the singles, they also made an effective doubles combination. Sutherland was the first substitute and filled in very well. Schock managed the team, arranging a very good schedule. Unfortunately many of the games had to be cancelled because of rain.

Despite the fact that most of the regular members of last year's team have graduated, nevertheless 1925 should turn out a team of which H. M. ought to feel proud.

Loeb is the only letter man returning and he will most likely have the honor of holding the position of first man. Klee and Manager Happoldt are the leading contenders for second place, and then there is a wealth of capable material from which to pick the rest of the team.

Soccer Review

The Varsity Soccer Team of 1924 began the year with one of the weakest teams that has ever been seen at Horace Mann, yet completed the most successful season in five years. With a schedule of nine games, the team scored seven victories and suffered but two defeats.

After about three weeks of regular training the team was in shape for its first game. This was with Riverdale, and resulted in a 2-1 victory for Horace Mann. Capt. Barnouw scored both goals for Horace Mann, and the Riverdale tally was on a beautiful foul kick from the center of the field. A week later the team went down to its first defeat at the hands of Richmond Hill, a large Brooklyn public school. The final score was 0-2. The third game of the season was again a victory for Horace Mann. This game was with Manual Training, also a public school. Elated over this victory, the team faced Lincoln the following week in an oversure frame of mind. The result was a hollow victory for Horace Mann. At the final whistle the score was 1-0, the goal having been a freak of luck. The team, incensed over their poor playing, faced their old rival Poly Prep two weeks later, determined to fight their hardest. The resulting score of a beautifully played game against a heavy team was I-0. The goal was made by Haas, after a run down the field with some pretty passwork on the right side of the line. This is the first time in six years that a Horace Mann team has defeated Poly Prep in soccer. The next week Horace Mann's hopes were shattered for the second time. The defeat was at the hands of a powerful aggregation from N. Y M. A. The score of the game was 2-1, our tally having been scored by Capt. Barnouw. The last three games of the season were three decisive victories for Horace Mann. The first of these was a crushing defeat over Lincoln school to the tune of 4-0. The second was also a walkaway, a 3-1 victory over Riverdaie. This game is noticeable because it was the only goal which was scored on Barnouw the whole year. The last was a 1-0 victory over the football team.

The team was very light, especially the foreward line. Erik Barnouw, the captain, was the star and mainstay of the team wherever he played. When at goal, he saved many a score by his quick action and brilliant use of his arms and body; when in the forward line he led the attack. The highest scorer this year was Marc Haas. He scored six out of the total of 14 goals. Besides that he worked very well with the outside man Barnett; together they often carried the ball down a crowded field dribbling and passing. The other outside was Lucke, who was very fast and a quick and clever dribbler. Mitchell and Capt.-elect Waldo were the other two forwards. These two men took turns playing. Waldo had the advantage of weight and speed, but he was not as tricky a dribbler as Mitchell.

The half-backs were the weakest part of the team. Luykx was the keystone of the half positions and he covered an immense amount of territory. However, both Whitney and Weinberg, though they were good kickers, were slow in recovering the ball.

The full-backs, especially Gies, are worthy of mention. Gies and Boyd were an exceptionally strong defense, and time and again they would stop the onslaught of the opposing team.

Richl played goal, when Barnouw was not there.

Carl Sturm was manager of the team, and arranged a very attractive schedule, though a somewhat overloaded one at the end. Little will succeed him next year.

"Making" the Varsity Club is one of the highest athletic honors that can be obtained at H. M. Membership is based on a point system. Varsity letters received in the four major sports count four points each, while a minor sport letter is awarded three points.

Managerships do not count. One and two markers are also added if a man wins a second team letter in a major sport or plays on the Varsity scrubs. The required total of points, once fifteen, has been raised to twenty, and any man capable of making these twenty points in his three years in the upper school is talented, athletically at least.

Dramatic Club Review

On April 25, 1924, the Dramatic Club presente. "The Knight of the Burning Pestle", a drama by Beaumont and Fletcher, as its crowning effort of the year. The play was given in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Plaza before the largest audience that has ever attended a Dramatic Club performance.

The chief roles were filled very creditably by Syms. Peck, Reed and Pforzhe.mer. They, as chief characters, kept the show moving. Syms and Peck from their positions at the left of the stage spoke their lines with the greatest possible effect and added immensely to the success of the play. Carl Pforzheimer, the young hero of the play, acted with except onal ability and charm, while Wilson Reed as the drunken husband of Mistress Merrythought kept the audience in laughter and excited their applause by his excellent singing. Another bright spot of the performance was John Green, who rendered the part of the foppish young suitor of Luce with remarkable skill. Crdit must also be given to Lindheim and Wallstein for their characterizations of the two lovers, while Morgan the father of Luce, and Barnett, the shrewish Mrs. Merrythought likewise did very well.

The scenery end of it was ably handled by Bernstein, Sharpe and Luykx, while Charles F. Schock, Otis, Barnouw, Kane and Gitterman were the business managers. The dance after the performance was enjoyed by all, the music having been furnished by John Green's Harmonians.

After the success of the previous year, at the Plaza, the Dramatic Club staged another performance on the stage at school on November 26th. An unusual feature of this performance was the fact that the Dramatic Club had decided to give no dance after the show, breaking a precedent which had been followed up to this time.

The first of the three one act plays was "Four of a Kind", a melodrama of the sea, with wide opportunities for character acting. It was well done and the audience received it enthusiastically, for the play was a good choice as an opener.

The curtain went up on the deck of a merchant ship in the south seas and revealed the two main characters of the play. "Jake" and "Crawls" interpreted respectively by Ward Bolter and Lincoln Barnett. These were two sailors, one a burly roughneck, and the other a deformed and whining sneak. Both parts were very well done as regards completeness of characterization. Roy Miner, who also directed the play very capably, portrayed the difficult part of Wang the Chinaman. The character of "Father Jerolomen", the Jesuit priest, was well taken care of by Erik Barnouw, while Smike, the other cut-throat, was acted by William Boyd III, whose representation was not as absolute as it might have been.

The second play, "A Comedie Royall" did not fare as well as the first. It was an Elizabethan drama of a somewhat boring cast, and the mechanics of the writing of the play were poorly done from a theatrical view-point. Of the characters there is not much to be said. Sinauer, who played the part of Royall Hartwynd, the hero, was perhaps the best. He might have been a little stilted, but he spoke his lines with feeling and emotion. The part of his lover Phyllida French was played very ably by Myron Isacs, a newcomer in dramatics. He acted extremely well in places, but in other, the emotional parts, he didn't seem quite capabe of putting across the true feeling of the lines. Oelkers, as the father, was excellent. He was well fitted for the part, and there was no doubt of his ability and talent. Brown and Freeman were the courtiers, and they did well in the unfortunate parts of two characters who were placed there by the author merely to help the exposition of the play. Wallstein in the part of Queen Elizabeth was miscast, and for the most part overacted. Although he tried hard, he was unfitted for the part, and was not at home in it.

The last play, "The Other One," was the feature as well as the success of the evening. A sort of morality play dealing with the return of Christ in a tramp's dream, it was extremely well written and well acted. The part of "The Connecticut Kid" was very well interpreted by Edward Kennard, who played with great emotional force and feeling. The pathos in his character was extremely cleverly and powerfully done. Charles Bernstein acted as "The Other One", which was a very difficult part, and he played it with all the dignity and austerity which the character demanded. His mien and voice were solemn, almost too solemn, but the representation of his true being was skillfully and subtly put across. In the part of "Ramblin' Red", Robert Austin played with professional finish. His voice was good, his face was flexible and emotional, his manner was true and his character was complete.

Henrik Luykx and Frederick Little designed and made all the scenery. Though it was scarce and simply done, it added greatly to the effect of the show.

Following the custom begun last year, the Dramatic Club again presented a winter show up at school on the new stage. A dance which was held in the gym, followed the performance, the music being furnished by Morris's orchestra. The audience was larger than that which attended the fall production, and received the plays enthusiastically.

The first performance was "The Medicine Show" by Stuart Walker. There were but three characters in it: "Lut'er" which was played by Edward Kennard, "Giz" by Roy Miner and "Dr. Stev'n Vandexter" by Ward Bolter. These characters were three loafers fishing on the banks of the Ohio. All three boys were excellent in their parts and it is hard to say which was best.

The second play, "The Game of Chess" was somewhat raggedly done, and though perhaps more gripping than the first did not have the finish of writing and acting that the preceeding play displayed. The characters were not clearly drawn and the play contained too much philosophical discussion and not enough incident to excite the interest of the audience. Boyd as the "Duke Alexis" gave a performance which, though not remarkable, was quietly and capably done; for it was a long part and he had only been assigned to it two days before the show. Robinson was the other main character, a communist, "Boris Ivanovitch Shamraveff" by name, who would have been excellent had he known his lines better and tried to assume more of a character than he did. Austin as "Constantine" made much of his small part, although he had no chance to show his histrionic ability as in the fall show. Gibbs Kane, as the footman, was a marvelous creation in brown velvet and white ruffles.

The last play, an amusing farce called "Action" brought the performance to a successful close. It really was very funny and the audience received it infinitely better than the other two. Oelkers was the best of a large cast and his amusing speech in front of the curtain aroused the curiosity as well as the mirth of the audience. Untermeyer as Max overacted to the extent of not being clearly understood; yet his ability to play a character part was greatly appreciated by all. His dapper son was adequately played by Sinauer, who also directed the production. For the rest of the cast there is little to be said. Their deceases were enjoyed immensely by the audience, though their dramatic talent was nothing to speak of.

The props for the performance were small and simple, the set for the first play being merely a back drop. However, the lighting was very well handled and the crimson and gold costumes of the second play were marvellous to see.

Since this book comes out too late to review the final spring show, it is necessary to mention it before it occurs.

This year the idea is an unusual and original one. The club lacked the funds to rent the expensive hall room at the Plaza, so Mr. Smith thought of a very novel plan for giving the school something in place of it. The performance in the spring will be held in the new gymnasium, and the stage will be erected in the middle of the floor, Around the edge of the room small tables will be supplied to the seating capacity of four hundred. Refreshments will be served and dancing will take place before and after. The play, which is a three act farce by Moliere, occupies about an hour. It will begin about ten-thirty after some dancing, and the dancing afterwards is expected to last until twelve-thiry or one A. M.

The name of the chosen play is "Doctor by Compulsion." The cast has not been decided yet, but since it is a large one, wide opportunities will be offered. It may seem difficult to arrange tables around the room so that all may see, but it surely will turn out all right and all that come will certainly enjoy a good time.

Social Review

The Spring Dramatic Club Show and the Commencement Dance were the only events of the 1924-1925 social season that occurred after the Mannikin had gone to press last year. The former was an excellent production of Beaumont and Fletcher's "The Knight of the Burning Pestle", which was given in the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel Plaza on the twenty-fifth of April. It was an elaborate affair and was enjoyed by everybody. The play was followed by a dance whose success was largely due to the music furnished by John Green's Harmonians. The latter was a more modest function than its predecessor but was also a great success. Kane and the rest of the committee deserve a great, deal of credit for the excellent way in which they decorated the Old Gymnasium and supervised the dance. The Harmonians again supplied the music.

The 1924-25 season was ushered in on October eleventh by the Parents' Association Dance. It was held in the Thompson Gymnasium as a general get-together for the boys and girls of the senior high schools. Everybody had a good time despite the fact that there were several less boys present than girls. On November twenty-sixth, the Dramatic Club presented three one-act plays in the assembly hall. They were "Four of a Kind", "A Comedie Royall", and "The Other One". The Club started a new precedent by not completing the program with a dance, desiring the plays to be the outstanding feature of the evening. It felt that in the past the plays had been subordinate to the dance in the eyes of many members of the school. and so it substituted an ample supply of refreshments. Robinson was the business manager for the occasion.

The annual Alumni Dance was given in the

New Gymnasium on December twenty-seventh, preceded by the customary basketball game. Due to the efforts of Kane, Barden, and Robinson, the handicap of an uneven floor was overcome and a delightful evening was had by all present. Many of the Alumni attended and old acquaintances were again met.

On January thirtieth, the Mannikin Dance took place at the Thompson Gymnasium. The Columbian Blue Blowers syncopated for the evening and Fuld and Ellinger managed the affair. A large number of the graduates were present and helped to make it a very enjoyable evening.

The Library Committee next gave a Tea Dance after the Hackley basketball game. It was the first afternoon dance of the year and under the able supervision of Barden and Kane it proved to be one of the best of the season. Refreshments were served and Guy Partridge's orchestra provided the jazz for two hours of delightful dancing.

The Dramatic Club presented their winter performance on the twenty-seventh of February. The program consisted of three short plays: "The Medicine Show", "The Game of Chess" and "Action". The Club, after a great deal of deliberation, finally decided to follow the show with a dance, which was held in the old Gymnasium, attractively decorated for the affair. This seemed to be the better plan, as they had almost twice as large an audience as they had had at their previous show. Fuld attended to the business end and Paul Morris's Serenaders furnished the melody for the evening.

The Adelphoi Club staged a Tea Dance after the Bryant basketball game in the Old Gymnasium. It was featured by the very high class music rendered by Cliff King's orchestra. The dance was well engineered by Austin and Swope. Forty couples attended and passed a very pleasant afternoon.

The apex of the social season was reached when the Senior Class held its annual Promenade in the Crystal Room of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel on Friday night, April seventeenth. All former functions were dwarfed almost into insignificance by the tremendous success of this Prom. Some idea of its success may be attained when it is considered that over one hundred couples attended and stayed until two o'clock, when the dancing ceased. Too much commendation cannot be given to Kane and the Senior Dance Committee both for the efficient manner in which the arrangements were

No social review would be complete did it not mention Miss McIntosh, who through her continued efforts was indirectly responsible for the success of each dance and directly responsible for the success of the entire season.

Mentioned in the Mannikin

Of course the greatest trouble with all year books is that they are nothing more than a catalog, a list, illustrated if you like, but nevertheless a list of the various things that are done by the members of the student body. How vain is the attempt of any one group of fellows, no matter what qualities they may possess, to reproduce even the tiniest picture of the real life of H. M.! The spirit of school can no more be set down in black and white than the character of a boy can be traced by his photograph. And so we have tried to make this book, if possible, more personal than its predecessors, and to that end discarded the statistics which would necessarily appear in a Mannikin review, and devoted this space to opinions, narrow and personal if you will, but opinions which we feel are worth infinitely more than any lists of names or set of figures.

It has always seemed to us that the way the Mannikin is run is all wrong. Perhaps it is because the school as a whole has nothing to do with it, They pose for pictures and are mildly curious when the book comes out to see the result. Each year the Fifth Form becomes Seniors and is immediately plunged into a bewildering mess of data to be collected and business to be transacted. They have had no experience and have not the slightest idea of where to begin. It would be much more efficient to use the college competitive system of "heeling." That is, have the actual Board consist of five or six fellows, each in charge of some department. Then have as many boys from the fourth and fifth forms as would like to make the Board in their Senior year, collect the vast amount of material necessary, and if sufficiently endowed, do the "writeups" also. At the end of the year, the Senior Board would then choose its successors on the basis of ability and the amount of work done. Under this system, a few picked boys are left alone to do the executive work in an unhurried and capable fashion, while hard competition has added "hustle", and hard work, experience, to the chosen members of the next year's Board. It is a thing which cannot be started in year or made successful in two, but we would like to pass this suggestion on to next year's Board and to every class which some day expects to edit a Mannikin of its own.

Not for many years has the Record been on a par with most of the issues of this year.

Horace Mann's paper deserves to be congratulated — and this is directed to the man behind the editorial gun. The fine spirit of cooperation and righteous thunder, where righteous thunder was necessary, which surrounded and emenated from most of the editorials, and the neatness and felicity of the general make-up of the paper were excellent.

The second thing that we would like to mention while on this topic of school activities that are both new and worthwhile, is the Honor Committee. We wish that we could publicly take off our hat to the man who really started it. It didn't grow out of the sudden need of a year but was brought about by the personal influence of one man who was strong enough and confident enough to act as the guiding star of a group of fellows — though even they may not realize it. We are not discussing the method adopted. It has called forth a lot of criticism upon the head of the movement and a lot of praise. The fact that a group of boys should have been moved by the desire to see H. M. as good and clean as their own ideals and those of its founder demanded, that they voluntarily chose to see what they themselves could do to accomplish this, is the great and noteworthy thing about it all. Seriously the Honor Committee is a new and good achievement and one which the Class of '25 should feel proud to hand down as a tradition of the Horace Mann to come.

To say that the Record, during the year 1924-1925, has enjoyed its best year since its establishment as a vital organ of the life of the school, is no exaggeration. The eighteenth volume of Horace Mann's school newspaper came out in thirty-two numbers of which approximately half contained six or eight pages. The expansion of the paper into six and eight page issues is, in itself, an accomplishment worthy of merit. For, while former boards have been content to limit their endeavors to four pages of printed matter, this year's editors have had difficulty in cutting down the amount of submitted material. To conclude, we think that all that is best in the Record can be adequately summed up in the following three columns which during the year have comprised the heart and soul of the paper, as it were; editorial comment, "colvum", and humor.

A POSSIBLE REMEDY

Senior classes seem always to be confronted with financial troubles. If it is not because of the Mannikin, it is because they are in debt on account of the price of the Prom. The RECORD takes this opportunity to recommend a plan which we deem not only possible of fulfillment in its present form, but one which can be greatly improved upon by the helpful suggestions and co-operation of every member of the school.

Every class has a treasury, yet the only duty of the treasurer seems to be such trivial matters as the collection of money for the Thanksgiving fund and like circumstances which may occur perhaps once or twice during the entire school term. Most clubs and other organizations both in and outside of school have dues. These do not have to be in any way excessive, but should merely exist in case of emergencies which are likely to occur at any time. Dues have a double purpose. They insure a class a backing in case it should ever run into a debt for some reason or other, and thereby they do away with the not only unfair but illegal means of assessing in order to make up for a deficit. And also they add a feeling of unity, of organization, of substantiality to the class as a whole. Had the Senior class a treasury, it would easily be able to substantially contribute to the payment of this most important social event of the year. And should a class have a surplus at the end of its senior year, the balance could be contributed to the Mannikin which is always in need of additional funds. The tax on the individual may be ridiculously low and still amount to a considerable sum for the class at the end of one year. And with interest and additions for the six years of its existence, it will run into very large figures. At the rate of twenty-five cents a month, at the end of the term, a class has approximately one hundred dollars in its treasury. And at the end of six years, with compound interest, one class possesses in the neighborhood of seven hundred and fifty dollars in its coffers.

We think that this plan deserves the most singere attention of every member of the school, and we request further recommendations or criticism on this topic which is of such vital importance to each one of us.

ET CETERA

By the time this column is printed we shall have either re-elected our president, or have chosen some one new. And at this moment excitement is running pretty high. Arguments are racing, and insults are flying. We wonder if this election is really going to make so much difference, For us, the country will run along in the same old way. Americans like personalities. They like candidates, while they last. But when a man is president, he loses his glamour and we turn our enthusiasm back to Dempsey, Ruth, Chaplin, and Whiteman.

At last I have succumbed and I have gone to see "Abie's Irish Rose," It was as terrible as I expected. I laughed at the rottenness of the performance and the childishness of the play. To me the reason for the appeal of the play is simple. People enjoy friendly cracks at themselves. I am sure that more Jews tell Jewish jokes than Christians tell. And I think that that is the secret of the show's success.

We will have to wait some time before the wooden saucer will be creeted again. Bicycle Racing is the one sport that really thrills us. We like the dulf, driving, never ending sound of the wheels around the track. We like the shouts of the men who have been sitting for hours, waiting to see their favorite win a sprint, or gain a lap. It is basic. It is sincere. It is life. It combines in its requirements all the requirements for success in its. Team-work, perseverance, luck, psychology.

There are times when it becomes very hard not to be sentimental. And even those of us who have condemned sentimentality as foolish, and those who are much too grown-up to feel any emotion at all experience a little sorrow at this moment. A peculiar enchantment falls over everything. The trees seem to blossom more greenly. The tall gray buildine suddenly loses its prisonlike countenance and turns into a soaring castle. Even the faculty change from dreadful dragons into time household pets. Perhaps it is Spring. More likely it is because we are leaving a place which we have known and loved. And the bad memories disappear into the air, and the halo alone remains.

The Quarterly is the literary magazine of the school. Four times a year, eight or nine stories and a similar number of poems are selected by the board from contributions, received through the English Department, from every member of the school. This year's board has tried to the best of its ability to keep up the high literary standard set by former committees and has based its judgment in every case upon the intrinsic value of a theme rather than the age or experience of the author. As in the case of the Record, the best review of the Quarterly is obtained by the publishing of actual stories and poems which have been printed under its name. We have, therefore, printed below the story and bit of poetry which, in the estimation of the school, were the outstanding contributions received and published in the first three issues of the 1924-1925 Ouarterly.

"Dirty Meg." as she was called by the people living on the outskirts of the city, dwelled in a shabby frame house on a barren hill side away from other habitation. She lived with her husband; a fat, sleepy, child-like individual, who was treated as a troublesome boy by his shrewish wife. He was an imbecile; a poor, harmless, childish creature. He did odd jobs at home such as a small boy could do, and was sent out to play. He would wander through the tall rank grass for days at a time, and when winter came, he would play for hours in the snow.

hand, "Meg" knew that look, She caught sight of something in his hand and made him open it. Her eyes widened, and her mouth dropped open. He held a bright, new fifty dollar bill. It was the first of its kind she had ever seen.

"Where did you get that?" she said in a hushed voice, taking it from his pudgy hand. She examined it as if doubting its reality. He offered no answer. "Where did you get that? Where did you get it, I say," she repeated queruously. He babbled like a delighted baby, but gave her no satisfaction. "I'd better keep it," she said, pocketing it carefully in her extremely dirty sweater. That was all. Only, the people who One day, when "Meg" had just bered into their only room with a lived on the outskirts of the city did "Dirty Meg" was no longer dirty. She wore outlandish clothes, but they were new ones. There were whispers of "Meg's" husband having inherited a fortune. "Meg" had really found a "Goose that laid golden eggs." and she had no intention of killing the goose. She found that when her money ran low, she had only to tell her husband to go and get some more "pretty, green paper," and he would leave, returning to the hut with a sum of money. She had nagged him at first to tell her where these riches came from, but gradually accepted without question "The gifts the gods provided." Her greed overcame all.

One year passed, and "Meg's" needs were getting more than she could ever have imagined. Sometimes she would send her poor husband out two and three times a week. Her greed had become monstrous. Her husband, on the other hand, in spite of the care he was getting, was getting weaker and weaker. He would lie in bed for days, unable to move. "Meg" would feed him all he could eat, and then send him out as soon as he was able to stand on his feet.

She had purchased a new coat, and a wondrous hat with two huge feathers on it. The result was a large bill, which was due the next day. Her husband was still in bed from a prolonged weakness, and her funds were very low.

"He's been in bed long enough," she thought. "It won't hurt him to get up, just this once." She got him out of bed, dressed him, and led him to the door. He knew what she wanted, but there was a dumb appeal in his eyes that almost made her put him back to bed again. But she thought of the bill, and pushed him out of the door. She watched him go staggering down the dusty road to the city, and a lump rose in her throat. She was tempted to call him back, but she stifled her emotion.

All that day she was ill at ease. and at nightfall she watched the door, listening for footsteps. She could hardly sleep at night. She thought of her husband. Why had she let him go? She didn't even know where he went. Her greed had been all powerful! Finally, wrecked with anxiety, she put on her new hat and cloak, and hurried down to the city. It was damp and foggy. The darkness was appalling. She went quickly through the almost deserted streets, glancing furtively about her. At last she came upon an old acquaintance, an aged woman who knew everybody's busi-

"Have you seen my husband?"

she asked in a tense voice. The old woman looked up quickly.

"You haven't heard, dearie?" she said. "Meg" shook her eyes staring. "He fell in a faint," continued the old lady, "and they took him to the hospital. He—" Meg didn't wait to hear more. She ran into the city, her new coat flying in the wind and the hat with the feathers waved in the wind like some queer bird.

The big public ward of the hospital was very quiet except for the sobbing of a woman.

"Thats a mighty sad case," said the head physician of the ward, pointing in the direction of a sheeted figure on a stretcher. "That fellow was an idiot, but his blood was perfect. I used him in many of my transfusion cases. I paid him well, and I saved my conscience by saying to myself. "What is the life of one poor imbecile, to all these others, perfect in mind, whose lives his blood has saved?" Besides, he was most eager for these transfusions; begged for them with tears in his eyes. The woman there never knew where he got his money. His wife or sister I suppose." The poor broken creature huddled closer to the stretcher.

The feathers on her hat waved grotesquely.

The 1924-1925 Horace Manual was presented to the school in the fall of 1924 by the Adelphoi and Aquila Clubs. These two senior organizations undertook the publishing of the book upon the graduation of the clubs of the Class of '24 who had put out the 1923 book. The above board was elected from the combined clubs and accomplished much of the work connected with this enterprise during the summer months. It is the first time in the history of the school that the Manual was given to the school as a whole by any organization. The publishing of this handy little guide-book has been taken over by the Delphi Club of the Class of '26 and it will come out shortly after school opens next fall.

Adelphoi Club Review

The Adelphoi Club was first organized five years ago by the late Mr. Rogers with four students, Heydt, Barnouw, Austin, and Miller as charter members. The Club then elected Mr. Gerow to assist them in their undertakings and to guide them. Since then the Adelphoi Club has grown to capacity and has entered every field of school activity with marked success. The Adelphoi Chib attempted to stimulate more school spirit by offering a financial sum for the best essay on the subject. The Ace Club Scholastic Shield was won by the Adelphoi Ciub in 1922 when the latter club was still in the Junior school. The Adelphoi Club then turned its attention to the athletic world the following year and startled the entire school by annexing the basketball championship of Horace Mann. It awarded a suitable medal to the leading scorer on the basketball quintet in 1923 in the hopes that keener competition for points would result. The Adelphoi Club then presented a huge scoreboard for the games and this gift was a real necessity and is still in use. The Club wound up the year by being barely nosed out for the Scholastic Honor and since then this donation has ceased. The next year the Adelphoi Club again won the basketball title, playing true to expectations, and procured some additional shields to be hung in the lunch room as a reminder of the school athletic records. The records were then all compiled and brought up to date. The Senior year has been very successful and the Club has taken a leading role in the campaign for honesty among students. It repeated, for the third consecutive time, its past basketball triumphs by again winning the championship of the school. The Adelphoi Club took an active interest in all social events and sponsored a tea dance at school during the latter part of the winter. When a fund was inaugurated for the New Building the Club immediately contributed a sum. The accomplishments of the Adelphoi Club and the personal achievements of the individual members have brought about its success and its deserved prominence.

Aquila Club Review

The Aquila Club was founded in 1919 when the class of 1925 was in the first form. There were six original charter members, of whom only two, Henry Loeb and Joseph Gitterman, are still in the club. The late Mr. Kenneth Rogers was our first faculty advisor, and it was mainly due to his efforts that the club was organized. The club was founded with the intention of promoting good fellowship and school spirit among the members of our form.

In the middle of the club's first year Mr. Rogers was obliged to resign his position as faculty advisor. The club voted to ask Mr. Ralph Beatley, Head of the Mathematics Department, to take Mr. Rogers' place. Mr. Beatley held this office for two years until he was called away to Harvard. At this time Mr. Bruce was asked to accept the advisorship of the club. A good part of the club's success in recent years has been directly due to Mr. Bruce's interest and activity.

During the third year of the club's existence the idea was inaugurated of giving a medal to the student scoring the greatest amount of points during the spring track season. This practice has been continued and a medal will be awarded again at the close of this school term. In 1922 the club donated the shades which are now hanging in the old gymnasium and which were used during past basketball seasons.

Towards the end of its fifth year the club started to social life by giving a dance in cooperation with the Adelphoi Club at the country home of Max Kops, the club's president for the past three years.

The Aquila club again cooperated with the Adelphoi club in publishing the 1924-1925 edition of "The Horace Manual." This edition has been considered one of the best that the school has ever seen.

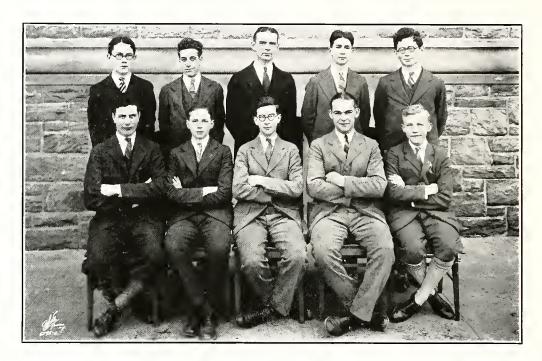

The club has always taken a large part in school activities, scholastic, athletic, social and literary, and we may well be proud of the record we have made in our Alma Mater's club history.

OCTOBER

School opens Sept. 22nd, as best senior class in the history of the school files to its new seats in the rearranged study hall. Football outlook encouraging as week of pre-scason practice sees large squad report to "Ump." Manual presented to school by Adelphoi and Aquila Clubs. G. A. budget made out. Soccer has scarcity of experienced men. Library Committee elects Barden chairman. 1925 Mannikin Board chosen, headed by Barden and Barnouw. Class elections held. Austin holds premier position as President of Seniors. "Et Cetera" column, the new feature of Record contributed by Bernstein, excites much comment. Varsity defeats hard Dwight team, 27-0, in exciting game. Captain Kertscher stars. Cross Country team places sixth out of sixteen schools entered in R. P. I. race. Student Council Auxiliary Committee elected. Council chooses Oelkers as head. Soccerites win and lose as Captain Barnouw plays stellar role. Harriers downed by Poly Prep. Bronxville blanked as Varsity wins third in row. Assembly programs of senior speeches begin on 27th. Announcement that Dramatic Club Fall Show will be featured by lack of dance raises storm of protest. Swimming pool formally opened to student body.

NOVEMBER

Cross Country men make poor showing at Yale Interscholastic. Varsity Football Team defeated by ancient rivals. Hackley, 13-7, after leading half the game. Over 300 H. M. rooters, transported thither by three busses and innumerable cars. back the team with all they've got for an hour of thrilling football. For the first time in five years Soccer downs old foes in hard game. Poly Prep beaten 1-0 on the 7th of November. Soccer aggregation, though claiming city championship, loses to N. Y. M. A., 2-1, Captain Barnouw scoring only goal for losers. X-Country defeated by De La Salle. Varsity ends season by dropping heart-breaking game to Adelphi, 6-0. Dramatic Club picks three one-act plays for Fall Show. Many groups taken for Mannikin. H. Kertscher elected to succeed his brother in captaincy of 1926 football. Record editorials demand more money for publications. These plays given by Dramatic Club on Nov. 26th. Fairly weil attended but by more mature audience due to lack of dance. Waldo 1925 Soccer captain. Harriers place second in private school meet, being beaten by Poly Prep. Themes are selected for first Ouarterly by small board.

JANUARY

Swimming inaugurated as minor sport, as pool's popularity increases. Football team to be entertained at dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Kertscher, instead of customary dinner, School hears Hampton Quartette with usual delight. Lack of experienced men hampers Hockey Team. Cross word puzzle appears in Record thereby demonstrating the upto-dateness of Horace Mann's great and official paper. Basketball outlook very promising as fast team starts practice. Printing Club to have room of its own. Formation of mysterious Honor Committee raises much criticism pro and con. Christmas holidays start Dec. 17th. Alumni defeated in annual basketball game 35-14 as many throng new gym. Dance following enjoyed by gathering. Radio Club formed. Numbers many fans. Mannikin to hold dance to raise funds on 30th of Jannary. Winter sports in full swing as first third of school year draws to its close.

DECEMBER

Manhattan Prep beaten as victorious basketball combination sweeps on to fifth straight win. Material for second Quarterly chosen and new members elected to Board. Delphi Club to print next year's Manual. Number of six and eight page issues of Record exceptional. Senior rings arrive and are distributed among the "splendidly flush," Adelphoi Club letter draws forth caustic comment. Six Seniors speak before Fathers' dinner at Astor. Football dance held night of 16th at Riverdale Club. Excellently run, every guest present feeling under a lasting debt to the kind hosts. After winning eight straight from Adelphi, Varsity drops first game to N. Y. M. A., 32-16. Hockey Team hits winning stride by chalking up victories at the expense of DeWitt Clinton and Mamaroneck. Mannikin dance thrown Jan. 30th. Success in every way. Tickets on sale for the Library Committee tea dance after the Hackley basketball encounter, "The Medicine Show", "The Game of Chess", and "Action" are three one-act plays chosen by actors for Winter Performance. Fidian Club holds successful swimming meet in lower school. Second Basketball follows Varsity's example in trimming Trinity. Hockey team eclipsed by strong Pawling sextet, 6-0.

FEBRUARY

Midvears end in blaze of glory. Varsity shaded by Evander Childs 18-17 as Russell makes basket in last minute of play. Collegiate trounced. Record backs Honor Committee in strong editorial. A bit of sareasm features the Et Cetera column of the Record. Second team defeats Lincoln and Trinity in basketball. Hockey Varsity nosed out in fast game by Jamaica 2-1 on Feb. 5th. Ball-tossers chalk up eleventh victory at expense of Hackley. Gym team gives an exhibition before contest. Many guests watch game and enjoy tea dance held in Library by Library Committee on St. Valentine's day. Record prints two letters on subject of Honor Committee which arouse much comment. Senior poll shows Princeton most popular college with Dartmouth second. Enthusiastic audience attends Winter Show on Feb. 27th. Plays not up to standard of Fall performance but dance afterwards big success. Stuyvesant crushed under 40-16 score.

MARCH

Professor Erskine speaks at informal Quarterly dinner. Bryant throws Varsity for third loss of season in best game of year 25-24. Adelphoi Club tea dance run off in old gym. Excellent music and refreshments. Fifth Form to give informal dance. Themes are selected for third Quarterly. Hockey loses last game of season to Morristown on poor rink. Baseball practice on 20th. Adelphoi Club wins inter-club basketball contest for third straight year. Basketball team leaves on trip in Connecticut Valley. Presented with gold basket balls for winning Private Schools Championship of city. Loses hard fought game to Holyoke and is beaten by Commercial College and poor refereeing 27-26. Senior Prom tickets on sale for dance at Ritz-Carlton on April 17th. Dramatic Club to give cabaret affair in new gym on May 1st. Spring vacation until April 6th for all except pupils in "Ump's" baseball school.

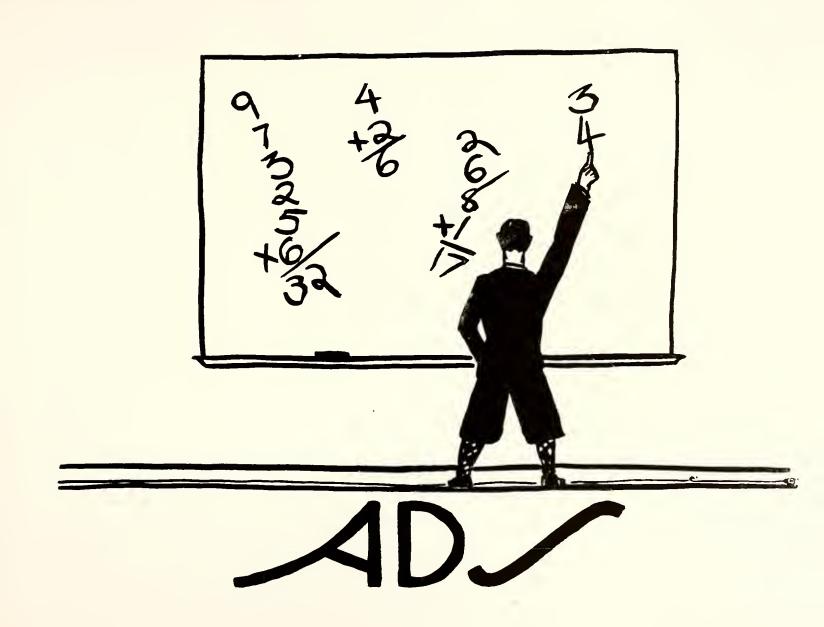

As the Mannikin goes to press before the spring months arrive we have of necessity, left many of the most important events of school "unchronicled and unsung". But we may safely venture that if April and May follow in the footsteps of their predecessors, the year 1925 will have been, in every phase, one of the most successful years since the founding of Horace Mann.

STEINWAY

The Instrument of the Immortals

Unswerving fidelity to the ideal of its creator has made Steinway the continual leader in the development of piano manufacture. Each of Henry Steinway's descendants has contributed his own particular genius and ability to the perfection of Steinway craftsmanship. This devotion to perfection likewise has made possible the Steinway of the home. In the smaller grand or upright, suitable for the modest abode, the Steinway tone lives in all its glory and nobility. Once you have heard or played a Steinway there can be no question of your choice. It will be your piano, just as it is the piano of the masters who have named it. Steinway— Instrument of the Immortals.

Any new Steinway piano may be purchased with a cash deposit of 10%, with the balance extending over a period of two years. Used pianos accepted in partial exchange.

Prices: $875 and up

In Greater New York, Steinway Pianos are sold only at Steinway Hall.

Columbia University

IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK

Offers

To UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS

Courses for men in Columbia College and for women in Barnard College leading to A. B.

The program of studies in the College places emphasis on the quality of the student's work rather than the time spent in residence, and is so arranged as to make it possible for a properly qualified student to complete the requirements both for the bachelor's degree and for any one of the professional degrees of the University in six years.

To PROFESSIONAL STUDENTS

Courses for men leading to appropriate degrees in Law, Mining, Metallurgy, Chemistry, Civil, Electrical, Mechanical and Industrial Engineering.

For men and women in Architecture, in Business, in Dentistry, in Journalism, in Medicine, in Education and Practical Arts through Teachers College, and in Pharmacy at the College of Pharmacy.

To GRADUATE STUDENTS

Courses for men and women leading to A. M. and Ph.D under the Faculties of Political Science, Philosophy and Pure Science and to M.Sc. under the professional school faculties.

The University has a six weeks' Summer Season and a system of University Extension including an Institute of Arts and Sciences for popular education.

INFORMATION regarding each course is found in special Bulletins of Information, furnished without charge. Any of these, and any further information desired, may be obtained from the Secretary.
